LIVE PERFORMANCE

The mission of the Department of Theatre, Drama, and Contemporary Dance is to advance the art, scholarship, and appreciation of theatre and dance and its place in society. We pursue this mission collectively and as individuals through theatrical productions, scholarship and publication, presentation of our work in national and international venues, formal instruction, and individual mentoring.

LIVING IMPACT
Greetings and welcome to the IU Theatre and Dance 2023-2024 production season!

We are thrilled with the productions we have for our students and audiences this year.

Live performance is a place for communities to gather for engaged storytelling. Our stories this year continue with our tradition of bringing the most exciting, meaningful, and entertaining work to our audiences. We continue to use live performance as an opportunity to express the zeitgeist of our world. We hope that you will consider joining us for many additional lectures, discussions, and collaborations throughout the season.

This year we welcome a new generation of graduate and undergraduate students that will directly contribute to the artistry and craft. We’d like to take a moment to welcome many guest artists to our season – from choreography and music direction to directing and designing. We’d also like to welcome Dr. Sarah Johnson, who joins our faculty as the Head of Dramaturgy, and David Tracy, our new Public Relations and Audience Development Specialist.

We’d also like to take a moment to bid a fond farewell to Laura Judson and Madison Colquette, two fantastic staff members in our department community who are moving on to wonderful new chapters. We thank them for their service to our department and especially to our students.

Thank you to our patrons, donors, Theatre Circle members, and of course YOU, the audience experiencing our students’ work at this performance! Please visit our website or pick up a brochure to learn more about how you can become a member of the Theatre Circle, and to find out more about our upcoming productions, student independent projects, guest artists, student organizations, and class offerings. We look forward to having you join us for all our live performances this year and wish you our very best for the 2023-2024 academic year!

Orlando is my thesis. That word carries with it such a finality of purpose. A capstone achievement of a long journey of self-discovery that encompasses hours of learning, exploration, and failure. An entrance into the world that shouts: I have arrived! But this is false. Art is not about the arrival—the product. It is about the process of doing. And self-discovery is not a linear journey with a singular destination. It is a messy push and pull across time and space.

This play explores and revels in questions of identity and purpose. Orlando stumbles into themselves as they chase their passion across time over continents. Their path is unplanned and their destination entirely unknowable. They are an artist for whom a single poem takes centuries to write. They are lover who questions love. They transcend gender, living in both and neither. This play and this production do not conform to rules—rules of gender, time, or even storytelling itself. It lives in the in-between. As does life.

As you watch this play, I hope a moment of Orlando’s journey resonates with your own—regardless of how fantastical or different it seems. Set your expectations aside, and hop aboard for the ride.

WELLS-METZ THEATRE
"I am reduced to a thing that wants Virginia."
—Vita Sackville-West

"I lie in bed making up stories about you."
—Virginia Woolf to Vita Sackville-West

Virginia Wolf frames her novel Orlando as a biography, following over the course of centuries a young man who transforms quite suddenly into a young woman. Real historical figures and events wind their way through Orlando’s journey. He is whisked to court as one of Queen Elizabeth I’s lover, he skates across the Thames during London’s Great Frost of 1608, and she drives a motor car to the department store in 1920s, the present moment when the novel was published. Woolf based the character of Orlando on her lover, Vita Sackville-West. Sackville-West’s son once called Orlando “the longest and most charming love letter in literature.” Sarah Ruhl’s adaptation of this novel to the stage explores the inherent performativity of gender.

From the poem, “The Land” by Vita Sackville-West

The poet like the artisan
Works lonely with his tools; picks up each one,
Blunt mallet knowing, and the quick thin blade,
And plane that travels when the hewing’s done;
Rejects, and chooses; scores a fresh faint line;
Sharpens, intent upon his chiselling;
Bends lower to examine his design,
If it be truly made,
And brings perfection to so slight a thing.
But in the shadows of his working-place,
Dust-moted, dim,
Among the chips and lumber of his trade,
Lifts never his bowed head, a breathing-space
To look upon the world beyond the sill,
The world framed small, in distance, for to him
The world and all its weight are in his will.
Yet in the ecstasy of his rapt mood
There’s no retreat his spirit cannot fill,
No distant leagues, no present, and no past,
No essence that his need may not distil,
All pressed into his service, but he knows
Only the immediate care, if that be good;
The little focus that his words enclose;
As the poor joiner, working at his wood,
Knew not the tree from which the planks were taken,
Knew not the glade from which the trunk was brought,
Knew not the soil in which the roots were fast,
Nor by what centuries of gales the boughs were shaken,
But holds them all beneath his hands at last.

You’re invited to
Orlando Party: Gender Rebels and Queer Lives
Tuesday, October 3, 4:00–6:00 p.m.

To celebrate IU’s production of Orlando, adapted from the novel by Virginia Woolf by Sarah Ruhl, we are throwing an Orlando party, featuring a pop-up exhibition of gender rebels and queer lives throughout history. At 4:30p.m., students from the IU Department of Theatre and Dance will perform dramatic readings from letters in the Lilly Library collections. These letters are from Vita Sackville-West, Virginia Woolf’s lover upon whom the character of Orlando was based, and detail Vita’s reaction to seeing her genderbent self in fictional form.

Pop-up exhibition begins at 4:00 p.m.
Light refreshments will be provided after the readings. Register for free.
Inspired by Indiana University’s motto, the College of Arts and Sciences presents its final themed semester this fall. Themester 2023 focuses on Lux et Veritas | Light and Truth and explores the nature, history, artistic and scientific expressions of light and truth, as well as the cultural role of inquiry in relation to these concepts as they are found in the arts and sciences...and beyond.

Associate Producers

The contributions of associate producers directly fund an IU Theatre production of the donor’s choice. As an associate producer, you will help directly support the cost of a production’s costume, scenic, lighting, sound, and projection design.

Your name will be featured in our programs and all curtain speeches. You will also enjoy benefits as year-round members of Theatre Circle, an organization founded to promote and encourage the study and practice of theatre arts in the Department of Theatre, Drama, and Contemporary Dance and an awareness of theatre throughout the community.

For more information,
please pick up a Theatre Circle brochure in the lobby,
contact David Tracy at davtracy@iu.edu or Linda Pisano at lpisano@indiana.edu or 812.855.0809.

You can also visit the Department of Theatre, Drama, and Contemporary Dance website at theatre.indiana.edu and select the Theatre Circle link.
